ECHO OF LAMBERT CASE HEARD ANEW

[INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE] SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Aug. 13.—"I did not understand. I will stick to him now through thick and thin." This was all a pretty brown haired girl would say today regarding her husband, the arrest of whom, on charges of desertion preferred by her, revealed him as W. H. Orpet, the principal figure in one of the most dramatic murder trials in the history of Wisconsin. The identification came by chance. The case of W. H. Dawson was called before Judge Fitzgerald. The judge looked the defendant over and inquired if Dawson was the correct name. "No," replied the man, I am Will Orpet. The wife pleaded for leniency, declaring that her ignorance of California geography caused her to believe her husband was leaving her when he had intended going only a few miles away to obtain work. Orpet revealed a heroic story of "beating back" following his acquittal on the charge of having murdered his boyhood sweetheart, Marion Lambert. He served in the army throughout the war. He met his wife in Detroit. After the war he came west and she joined him. Here they have been having a hard struggle, but today their misunderstanding cleared up, they face the world with renewed confidence. The wife declared that knowledge of her husband's real identity had only made firmer her intention to "stand by him." Although Orpet told the judge they had been married a month, inspection of the marriage license records revealed that the license had only been issued this week. Orpet gave his age as 24 and the girl, Olga M. Saranow, as 19.

PENN. EXPRESS STEWARD DIES IN HOSPITAL

[INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE] CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—J. B. Todd, steward of the Chicago Express, a New York-Chicago train, on the Pennsylvania railroad, died in a local hospital here this morning from a gunshot wound suffered in an attempted hold-up of the train as it was pulling into Chicago shortly before midnight. Railroad detectives and city police are searching the South Side today for Todd's slayer. The attempted hold-up was a bold piece of work. When Todd resisted, the bandit shot him through the jaw, pulled the emergency cord and dropped from the train. He got no money.

SEASON'S FAD IS WHITE MUSLIN USED IN COMBINATION WITH DARK TAFFETA

This frock, which is a rather startling model made according to the dictates of one of the season's most popular fads, is just the thing for August. It is fashioned of white muslin and navy blue taffeta in combination. The taffeta forms a narrow underskirt and camisole bodice. The finest of white muslin, almost of handkerchief linen quality, trimmed with very wide bands of English embroidery forms the overdress. This is made with a surplice waist, short, full sleeves and a long tunic open at the sides. A smart off-the-face hat of navy taffeta and a navy and white striped silk parasol complete the costume. It is suitable for wear upon almost any occasion the late summer afternoons may bring about.

Mrs. C. Buell of Indianapolis boulevard is entertaining out of town friend at her home for a few days. We are glad to report that Tom Rafter is getting along nicely from his recent operation which was performed at the St. Elizabeth's hospital in Chicago and if all is well, Mr. Rafter will be expected home in a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Long of Atchison avenue are the proud parents of another baby girl, who arrived at their home on Monday. Mrs. Long was formerly Miss Grace Wichorst.

Mrs. Paul Dobertine is rapidly improving from her illness at her home on Myrtle avenue. Mrs. Robert Crow, well known in Robertsdale, is reported very ill at her home in Munster. Mrs. Crow has a very severe attack of asthma, her niece Mrs. Elmer Bauer and son have been with her for several days.
